Mr. Way:

I ran across the Red and Bonita Mine project in discussion with other colleagues and also see the potential need for establishing temporary water treatment.

Veolia is a large environmental and water services company, and I manage the part associated with mobile water services. One of our key services is mobile clarification, which we combine with our process knowledge and chemical treatment expertise. Please see the attached brochure and video on such as the following link:

Please let me know who I may contact to learn more and help. Thank you for your consideration.
